IN HONOR OF MCLELLAN.

STATUE TO HIS MEMORY UN-

A Notable Cathering in Spite of Bad Weather A Large Parade and Warm Tributes the Fentures of the Occasion. PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 24.—The inclemency of the wrather caused a postponement of the cere-monies at the unveiling of the McClellan statue this afternoon for an hour. Gen. McClellan was born in this city and appointed to West Point from here. In a separate part of the re-viewing stand and to the immediate right of the statue were seated the McClellan family. They luded Mrs. George B. McClellan of Net York, widow of the General; Col. George B. McCiellan, President of the Board of Alder men of New York, the General's son; Col. Arthur McClellan, Drifton, Pa., brother of the General: Mary McClellan, Phila-delphia, sister of the General; Dr. George McClellan, Philadelphia; Col. O. E. Mc-Clellan, Philadelphia, and John McClellan, New York, nephews of the General; Mrs. J. H. B. Mc-Clellan of Philadelphia, the General's sister-inlaw, and three daughters. Among the others present were Govs. Pattison of Philadelphia and Reynolds of Delaware, with their staffs; Major-Gen. Schofield, Commander-in-Chief of the United States army; Adjt.-tien, Ruggles, U. S. A.; Gen. Fitz-John Porter, New York, and Adit .-Gen. William S. Stryker of the New Jersey National Guard, who represented Gov. Werts of Just after the death, in October, 1885, of Gen. McClellan a movement was started in Philadelphia to erect a statue to his memory. Success did not crown the efforts of the admirers of "Little Mac." but they persevered, and in 1889 an appropriation of $5,000 was secured from Pennsylvania Legislature. By continued hard work $13,000 additional was raised by popular subscription. William Astor of New York and William Frazier of Philadelphia each donating $1,000. The ceremonies attendant upon the unveiling were of an elaborate character, the chief feature being the oration of Gen. William B. Franklin of Hartford, Conn., who commanded a division under McClellan during the rebellion, and who was considered by McClellan to be one of his ablest officers. Gen. Franklin's praise of this "distinguished son of Pennsylvania" was unstinted.

Immediately after the unveiling a parade of 11,000 United States marines and sailors, Pennsvivania and New Jersey State militiamen, Grand Army men, and others passed by the Grand Army men, and others passed by the statue and gave a marching salute to the reviewing officer, Major-Gen. Schofield, Commander-in-Chief of the United States army.

The unveiling ceremonies were witnessed by 10,000 persons. The statue is erected on the northwest corner of the City Hall plaza, only a short distance from a similar monument erected to the memory of Gen. Reynolds, which stands at the northern end of the plaza. The McClelan monument, which represents the once Commander-in-Chief of the Union army in full field uniform, astride of his horse and overlooking the battlefield of Antietam, was jointly designed by Henry G. Ellicott and Paul M. Pelz of Washington, the former designing the statue proper and the latter making the drawings for the pedestal.

The statue is made of United States, status re-periestal.

The statue is made of United States statuary bronze from one inch to one and three-eighths inches thick. The man is one and one-half life size, and the horse is lifteen feet six inches long. From the pavement to the top of the hat the statue measures twenty-three feet six inches.

When Gen. McClellan died Mayor Smith of Philadelphia appointed a committee of fifteen citizens to attend his funeral at Trenton, N. J. The idea of a monument originated with this delegation, which comprised, among others, John Wanamaker, John Cadwalader, Gen. Isaac Winter. S. Davis Page, John Y. Huber, and Major Moses Veale. The committee was suffequently enlarged, and the McClellan Memorial Association was the outcome, Major John D. Worman being the first President.

Neven hundred invitations had been issued for the unveiling. The Rev. Dr. Henry C. McCook, pastor of the Presbyterian Tabernacle of this city, offered prayer, and then Gen. Smith delivered a brief address, with Battery A of the Pennsylvania National Guard firing a salute of seventeen guns, and amid cheers the statue was next unveiled. pedestal.

seventeen guins, and amid cheers the statue was next unveiled.

As the bronze figure was exposed the First Regiment band struck up a patriotic air, and a choir of eighty other singers from the Maenner-chor and Orpheus singing societies, as hymn, especially composed for the occasion.

After Gen. Franklin delivered his oration, Gov. Pattison spoke. The closing ceremonies were the address of Major Veale in formally presenting the statue to the city and the speech of acceptance by Mayor Stuart.

In addition to the $18,000 collected and appropriated to defray the cost of the monument, the City Councils of Philadelphia appropriated $5,000 to transport and entertain the troops of the Pennsylvania National Guard.

ILLICIT STILL SEIZED.

It Tielded a Profit of $350 Weekly-The Moonshiners Escaped. Two barrels of high-proof whiskey, ten hogsheads of mash ready for use, and a still with a capacity of two barrels of spirits daily were nue Collector Healy's deputies in the three story building in the rear of the Brooklyn City Railroad Company's transfer office and car house on Bush street, near Hamilton avenue Brooklyn. The illicit still was discovered by Deputy Collectors Dick Luhrs and Fuller, who expected, when they visited the place late on Tuesday night, to discover the distillery in full operation. The building where the moonshiners worked is an old structure formerly used as pottery. It is owned by P. J. Carlin, a contractor, who says that he had no idea of the real business of his tenants, who had occupied the place for three months and paid their rent regularly. It is believed that the still was conducted by two is believed that the still was conducted by twomen.

When the internal revenue officers reached the building they found all but one of the entrances to the distillery, which were on the ground floor, barred from the inside. A door leading into a fish-hook factory was open. The whiskey makers had disappeared when the officers entered, so all they could do was to seize the manufactured spirit and the still. The plant had a capacity of two berrels daily, which would yield a profit of about $350 weekly.
Collector Healy will recommend the confiscation of the building, and Contractor Carlin will be forced to make a fight to recover it.

MRS. LEACOCK'S ARREST. Policemen Thought She Was Brunk-Subject to Vertigo. Justice Tighe, while sitting in the Butler Street Court. Brooklyn, yesterday, dismissed a charge of intoxication made against Mrs. Jennie Leacock of 319 Fourth avenue by Policeman Wright of the Fifth avenue police station and Policemen Brady and Casey of the Fourth avence station. The policemen swore that they late at night in the station of the Brooklyn Elevated road at Fifth avenue and Third street. They took her in a patrol wagon to the Fourth avenue police station, where there is a matron. They said they did not smell whiskey on her breath, but sine was flushed and unable to walk. Her speech was also thick and incoherent.

Mrs. Learock swore that she had been taken ill on an elevated train while on her way to this city, and alighted at the station to go home. She lay down on a bench and asked the ticket agent to send for her husband. Mr. Leacock said that his wife had been subject for five years to attacks of vertigo. He declared that the never used intoxicants. Other evidence was produced to show that Mrs. Leacock was ill, and not drunk, when arrested. They took her in a patrol wagon to the Fourth

OUTLAWS IN INDIAN TERRITORY. Agent Wisdom Asks for Troops to Protecte the Courts and Citizens,

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.-Secretary Smith to day transmitted to the War Department for its information the following telegram from Agent

Wisdom at Muskogee, I. T.:
"The Cook gang of outlaws in force is camped at Gibson station, eight miles from here, on the Missouri, Kansas and Texas Railway. Believe hat another hold-up is contemplated. My police force, such as I can get together, is not equal to an emergency, and Col. Crump, at Fort equal to an emergency, and Col. Crump, at Fort Smith. Ark., writes me that he has not the money to get marshals in the field for campaign. Affairs are in a desperate condition, commerce impeded, business suspended, the people generally intimidated, and private individuals robbed every day and night.

"I renew my recommendation for troops, and earnestly insist that the Government, through the proper channel, take the matter in hand and protect its courts and citizens of the United States who are lawful residents in the Territory, Licensed traders are especially soffering, and they are here under treaty stipulations. This state of suspense must be broken up, and prompt action is urged to save life and property.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24,-The Postmaster-Genral is determined to prevent the correspondence of bond investment companies from being carried through the mails and will order that criminal proceedings be instituted in every case brought to his attention. A Post Office Department official said to-day:

"For a long time the department has been tak-"For a long time the department has been taking active steps to bring the promoters of these enterprises to justice, and among them are some very prominent men in political life. These companies are conducted materially the same as lotteries, and are at present operating in the South. Within the past few days the companies of this character in New Orleans, Jackson, Miss., Nashville, Atlanta, and Cincinnati have been forbidden the use of the mails. They

Greater Docking Facilities Required for the Navy. WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.-Chief Naval Constructor Hichborn of the navy in his annual report mays that greater docking facilities are imperative necessity in all the navy yards Mr. Hichborn declares that in the event of sudden war this country would be in a deplorable den war this country would be in a deplorable condition on account of the lack of capacity of Government docks. Steel ships, he says, require frequent docking under the ordinary conditions of peace, and the casualties of war would undoubtedly largely augment the demand for these indispensable adjuncts of a dock yard. Even now it is his only under the most favorable conditions of tide that some of our largest vessels can be docked at all, and in war this might involve the practical fighting and cruising efficiency of some of our most valuable ships.

The Columbia at Kingston, Jamalea,

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24,-A cablegram received at the Navy Department to-day announced the arrival of the cruiser Columbia at Kingston. Jamaica. The Columbia will remain at Kings on for about a week and then probably make a ton for about a week and then processly make a cruise in the West Indies, visiting Havana, where an American naval vessel has not been seen for over a year. The Marbiehead is thought to be on her way to Carthagena by this time, Sec-retary Herbert having ordered her, as well as the Columbia, to leave the Mosquito coast as soon as the state of affairs rendered their pres-ence no longer necessary to protect American interests.

Increase in the Gold Reserve,

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 .- There was a gratifying increase in Treasury gold to-day. The net gold now amounts to $60,022,023, nearly $1,500,000 more than was on hand yesterday. COREY MURDERED INDIAN GEORGE Our Police Found Him in the Charity Ros

Inspector McLaughlin's knowledge of crooks was brought into play on Saturday last when ne received a telegram from Deputy Sheriff J. E. Stimson of Conastota, Madison county, ask-ing him to arrest one Michael Kelly, wanted for the murder of James George, an Indian of that town. Sheriff Stimson sent a description of Kelly, which was complete to the minutest detail. Inspector McLaughlin thought that he ecognized in the man wanted an old crook, whom he had arrested himself on several occaons, and who had figured in any number of whom he had arrested himself on several occasions, and who had figured in any number of petty larcenies. He detailed Detectives John J. O'Brien and Patrick Lawlor to hunt him up. The man was Michael Corey.

The detectives found their man yesterday in the Charity Hospital. He was well enough to be up and around, and was taken to Police Headquarters. He bad assumed the name of John Burns, and said he lived at 301 Mulberry street, directly a posite Police Headquarters.

When Corey was confronted with the chief of the Detective Bureau he readily confessed that he was the man wanted for the murier. He said he went up to Pratt's Hollow, near Canastots, early in September to pick hops, and while working there met the Indian, George, who was also picking hops. George was keeping company with a young girl named Susan Webb, the daughter of a half-breed Indian. He became friendly with the Webb girl, and soon the Indian became jealous and they had several quarrels. On the night of Sept. 27 there was a dance in the house of the Webbs, and all hands drank freely. In the midst of the festivities, Corey says, the Indian became angered and attacked him with a jacknife. He succeeded in knocking the ludian down and took the knife away from him. When the Indian made for him again he stabbed him to the heart. Corey then ran across country and escaped. He did not know that he had killed the Indian, he said, until the detectives told him.

The records at Police Headquarters show that on Oct. 4, 1882, he pleaded guilty of larceny and was sentenced to two years and six months in the General Sessions by Judge Gildersleeve. On March 26, 1890, he was arraigned in General Sessions on a similar charge and sent to State prison for two years and eight months by Judge Fitzgerald.

He was arraigned in the Tombs Police Court yesterday before Juntice Ryan and remanded until to-day, when it is expected Sheriff Stimson will be on hand with a requisition to take him up to Canastota.

ROBBED AT HIS DOORSTEP. Burly Tramp Demands Money and Then

Edward Johnson of 54 East 116th street wa confined to his house yesterday from injuries eceived at the hands of a highwayman. Mr. Johnson is 65 years old and owns the house in which he lives. It is a flat house and he lives on the second floor. He arrived home about midnight Tuesday and was about to enter the house when he was halted on the doorstep by a muscular fellow dressed like a tramp and redolent of dirt and liquor.

and reminded him that he could probably secure lodgings at the nearest police station.

"I don't want no station house lodging, but I do want money," the fellow retorted. Mr. Johnson again refused him, and turned to enter the house. As he did so the beggar struck nim.
Old as he is, Mr. Johnson turned and grappled with his assailant, but was no match for him.
His burly antagonist threw him to the ground and kicked him.
He tried to cry out, but could only moan, and his assailant leaned over and tore his watch out of his pocket.

Continuing his search, he secured Mr. Johnson's purse. It contained about $64. The watch is valued at $100.

Hy this time the noise of the scuffle and the moans of the injured man were heard by Mrs. Geddings, who lives on the first floor. She looked out of the window and saw the man bending over Mr. Johnson. The called for help. The thief fled. Mrs. Geddings aroused the house. house.

Mr. Johnson was carried into the house. His head was cut and the left side of his face was baily bruised.

The thief has not been caught,

He has a massive head, hair nearly white, and no beard hides his strong features. His eyes sparkle with good nature and a vivid appreciation of humor. He wears the low-crowned, broad-brimmed soft felt hat of the English clergy, a long black coat over a short cassock, and knee breeches and black stockings. His lectures here will include "The Church of England," "Literature and Art." "Impostors, Bores, and Other Disagreeable People," "Agriculture and Horticulture," and "Society in England." "The Dean was the intimate of Thackeray, Dickens, Tennyson, Leech, and Tennial. He is 70 years old, but looks fifteen years younger. "Of course my main object in crossing the sea," he said yesterday, "is to see America; but to excuse such self-indulgence, to sanction such a long holiday. I must do something to help in the restoration of our cathedral. It is in great need of it and our income is saily reduced. After the very many kind things America has said of my book of Memories I hope for a successful tour. My remarks will be personal, ecclesiastical, upon temperance, Sunday observance, education, the different classes of British society. "Then I shall speak of the drama. I believe that all good people should give encouragement to those actors and actresses who try to elevate the stage, and push to one side those who degrade it. I shall speak of sports and games, of horses and horse racing. I am a lover of horses, and believe that there is no reason why horse racing should not be indulged in by working people. Here the sport is spoiled, I believe, by those who think of nothing but of the money to be made out of it."
